A Bayesian network, Bayes network, belief network, Bayes(ian) model or probabilistic directed acyclic graphical model is a probabilistic graphical model (a type of statistical model) that represents a set of variables and their conditional dependencies via a directed acyclic graph (DAG). For example, a Bayesian network could represent the probabilistic relationships between diseases and symptoms.

The history of statistics in the modern sense dates from the mid-17th century, with the term statistics itself coined in 1749 in Germany, although there have been changes to the interpretation of the word over time. The development of statistics is intimately connected on the one hand with the development of sovereign states, particularly European states following the Peace of Westphalia (1648 ...

Gaussian Processes and Kernel Methods Gaussian processes are non-parametric distributions useful for doing Bayesian inference and learning on unknown functions. They can be used for non-linear regression, time-series modelling, classification, and many other problems.

Results and Discussion. Bats captured 34.5% (number of moths presented; n = 87) of tailed luna moths, and 81.3% (n = 75) of moths without tails were caught—a 46.8% survival advantage for hindwing tails. Mixed-effects logistic regression revealed a moth without tails is 8.7 times [confidence interval (CI) = 2.1–35.3] more likely to be captured than a moth with tails.
